Thousands attend Horsham Remembrance Sunday Service

Horsham's Carfax saw thousands flock to the War Memorial to pay their respects at this year's Remembrance Sunday Service on Sunday 11 November.

The service commemorated 100 years since the First World War Armistice was signed, signalling the official end of the war.

Armistice centenary tree planting in Horsham Park

Remembrance Sunday began with a poignant ceremony in Horsham Park.

Chairman Cllr Peter Burgess gathered with members of the Friends of Horsham Park, the Horsham Royal British Legion and members for Denne, Forest and Trafalgar Neighbourhood Councils to plant a tree to commemorate the centenary of the armistice of the First World War.

Thank you to those who tied their own individual messages of remembrance on the tree which is in The Poppy Field in the park next to Park House.

A wildlife walk with a difference

If you go down to Pulborough next summer, you'll be in for a big surprise.

From summer 2019, a new family-friendly wild art trail will be opening in and around Pulborough, covering four kilometres from Pulborough station, through the village, across Pulborough Brooks and then on to the RSPB nature reserve.

You will also be able to download the WildArt app which will help walkers to find out more about the walk, surrounding countryside, wildlife, local history and points of interest.
