Creativity, colour and costumes galore at Horsham's first ever children's parade

Over 700 school children packed the streets of Horsham on Sunday 7 July to parade through the town sporting huge effigies, models and brightly coloured costumes.

The parade, organised by Happy Accidents and supported by the Council's Year of Culture, started at the Drill Hall in Denne Road and travelled through the historic streets to finish in Horsham Park as part of the town's ever popular Funday Sunday family event.
